HAVING FUN WITH YOUR HORSE AGAIN

ESDCTA/Skylands Seminar Series Continues

It was mainly about the body of horse and rider in August when Steiner Dressage demonstrated ways to condition our mind and body and Wendy Leich-Furlong explained the amazing powers of acupuncture and alternative medicinal therapies to help our horse's physical ills.

"Think of yourself as an athlete and your horse as an equal partner and athlete," Betsy Steiner told the audience at the second leg of the ESDCTA/Skylands Saddlery Summer Seminar Series.

Team Steiner – Betsy and Jessie Steiner, Assistant Trainer Sarah Travis, Intern Alyssa Gulianelli, and Intern Lucca Ruckhold – gave a bodies-on presentation. Betsy explained the goals of her Equilates as described in her book, "A Gymnastic Riding System Using Mind, Body, & Spirit." Equipped with a variety of exercise equipment, the team demonstrated techniques to relax before a ride and exercises to condition you to be the athlete necessary to accomplish your Dressage goals. Betsy said that increasing core strength not only helps you to ride better, but assists the horse when you are riding it.

³ "When you think about what we ask our horses to do and what we demand of them, we have to ask the same of ourselves."

Betsy said. "Being able to ride the 20-meter circle without suddenly asking where did it go requires the discipline and core strength of your own body to keep everything in alignment with the horse."

Betsy also advised that the rider should not practice the "no pain, no gain," method. She said riders should learn how to really use themselves to work through their exercises for success. Steiner's Equilates is specifically Pilates for the rider. She recommended that riders tell their regular Pilates instructors exactly what they need for riding, so the instructor can adjust the exercises and program accordingly.

"Not only are these exercises great for us as athletes," Betsy said, "but you really get to see what we are asking our horses."

Just a couple of weeks later, Dr. Wendy Leich-Furlong told us that our horses have to feel good to perform well. Her informative talk answered some of the questions everyone has about alternative therapies. First and foremost, the jury was in: they work!

After using the traditional methods to help their horses, Olympic riders have come off very successful competitions to tell Wendy that their horses have never felt better. One of the added benefits for competition, Wendy said, is that dry needle acupuncture can give a competitive edge without having any issues with drug testing. An Eventer and a veterinarian, Wendy said she uses acupuncture on her own horses and achieves wonderful results, as well.

Herself a successful patient of acupuncture, Wendy said she doesn't rule out traditional medicine if needed. She said acupuncture is considered both an art and a science and, while its successes have been well documented in the field of medicine, scientists "still don't understand on a cellular basis how it works."

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Autumn is almost here along with a variety of championship opportunities: the Region 1 Adult Team Competition the ESDCTA Championships, BLMs, and Horse Trials . They are the icing on the cake after a spring and summer show season.

We all want to be champions, winners in our passion. We all want our horses to shine as champions, as well. We put a lot of effort into their training and our own, as seen at the ESDCTA/Skylands Saddlery Summer Seminar Series. From Training Level to Grand Prix, Novice to CCI4*, each level attained is a measurement of how much our training, our diets and conditioning, and our mental health have made horse and rider better athletes.

We watch movies like Seabiscuit and Secretariat, and are inspired by the "against all odds" stories of these champions. While they were great horses, they succeeded because of the people who believed in them and gave them the best opportunities for them to succeed.

Unlike a horse race, however, which results in one winner crossing the finish line, our disciplines is a true measure of our personal best and allows each and every one of us to be a winner. There are no "also rans". While we may not get the blue, our scores are a good indication that we have met our goals and have had success. Sometimes, just getting our horse on a trailer and to the show may be a win. Even that ride at home where non-show goals, such as getting the perfect canter depart are met, should be considered a win.

Someone once said that simply showing up makes you a winner! When we read the show results, let's give a hat's off to everyone who had the courage and determination to show up that day and try their best.

You will find in this month's issue a new way to read the show results. We have had to pare them down in the newsletter in the interest of being green and conserving paper and space for other articles that people have said are of interest to them. But never fear, you can find the complete lists on our web site.

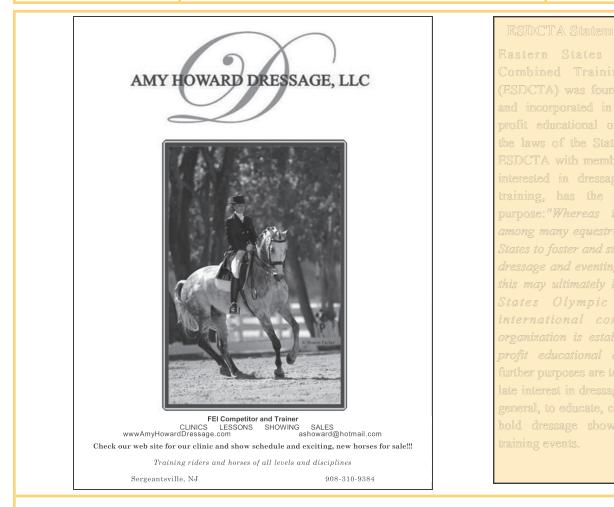

I wish you all a record-setting ride for your personal best!

Winning is great, sure, but if you are really going to do something in life, the secret is learning how to lose. Nobody goes undefeated all the time. If you can pick up after a crushing defeat, and go onto win again, you are going to be a champion someday - Wilma Rudolph, first American woman runner win three gold medals at a single Olympics.

Wendy said learning about acupuncture has been like learning a new language. The five elements of acupuncture, for instance, are wood, fire, earth, water, and metal. Each of these elements, in turn, refers to different areas of the body. She said it is about the balance between the Chinese theory of "Yin and Yang," which are polar opposites. When the "qi" – the force and energy that controls circulation in the body – becomes blocked, the needles unblock the circulation and relieve what is termed "stagnation". She said if she succeeds in reliving the stagnation, blood, which has its own distinct black color, will often drain from the site.

After checking the "meridian" of the horse to get a diagnosis, Wendy said she can tell the owner how the horse is moving without ever watching it go. She said owners are surprised that she knows what is happening when they ride.

But no medicine is as helpful to the horse as "treating them like horses again," Wendy said, pointing out that horses were "designed to graze 20 hours a day, yet we put them in 12x12 stalls, give them two meals, and ride them hard for an hour." Instead, her prescription for success is "good turnout, adequate diet, having hay in front of them all day, minimal grains, and cross training."

ESDCTA Trainers ' Tips, Advice, and Observations

Losing and Finding Your Confidence

By Heidi Lemack

I don't know how or why it happens, but at some point in most riders' lives there comes a time that we lose confidence. Here are three different scenarios that you may relate to if you find yourself lacking in the confidence department. The first scenario occurs when you believe that you can ruin your horse, even if you have a gentle snaffle, a plain pair of riding boots, and a basically reasonable temperament. The second scenario relates to "ahem" aging and the realization you are not invincible anymore. The last happens when you have been part of a traumatic incident. All three require similar paths to regaining confidence.

For the first scenario, there is no dressage god that is going to strike you down if you experiment with new ideas and play with your horse! I am still here to prove that. I strongly believe a rider becomes a horseperson by making mistakes: taking risks, having the risks not work and learning from them. Some famous person said when asked about losing many yacht races and finally winning one—and I can only paraphrase—"I never lost... I was learning to win." We have to make mistakes on our journey to becoming accomplished horse people, and be very thankful that horses are forgiving creatures. I will use myself for the second scenario; I lost confidence when I turned 39. Did I have a nasty fall? No, although I had fallen many times by then (okay-probably hundreds, but I practiced in the snow drifts as a teenager, so I got really good at it). I was not scared of falling. I asked a wonderful horse to trot—she did—I posted one stride and herniated a disc. And there it was... I was no longer invincible. Before that day, I had no fear or hesitation on the back of a horse. I would ride any horse, anywhere, under any circumstances. I had confidence and a lot of it. I used to say a bomb could go off and my horses would not notice. After the disc incident, I did physical therapy but after I got back on a horse, I found myself being very protective of my body and I started riding in the "safe zone." And my big moving horses became small moving horses, and they noticed things they had never noticed before. I lost my confidence and they lost theirs! At that point I realized I needed to not feel so vulnerable, like I could break at any time, so I went about getting stronger in my core to support my low back. With the help of a wonderful Pilates trainer, Sharon Spaziani, I came back straighter and more flexible than ever before. Thankfully, my horses returned to their original confident selves once I knew I was not as fragile as my brain and body thought . So, if you find yourself where I was, you can still ride the "10" movers, just take the time, especially off the horse, to get fitter and more flexible to prevent silly time consuming injuries like mine. Your horses will appreciate it. .

The loss of confidence due to a traumatic experience can be the most difficult to overcome. This can take a long time, but you would be amazed (or maybe not) at the number of people that I work with who want to ride when they are terrified of the "what if's" What if the horse bucks, what if the horse spins, what if the tractor comes by, what if the snow falls off the roof, what if? Well, you get where I am going. If this this is your situation, you need to treat yourself kindly; you must accept the fact that your brain and body want you to see another day, and they both want to protect you at all costs. They are in control; you are not. So, when you ask your horse to go, your hands may be pulling back without you being aware, and when you canter, your legs may be holding so tight that you're pinching yourself out of the saddle, your horse may not be able to breath, and I can bet you're not breathing either. I am sorry to say in many cases "mind over matter" just doesn't work. (I think "love horses" and "tough minded" are on the same gene). To begin, you need to establish where your fear resides. What are the triggers that elicit fear responses in your brain and body? Once these triggers are identified, enlist the help of a safe horse and place yourself in a safe situation (this may be under the supervision of a professional). Teach your body the correct responses to adverse situations at times when the correct responses are not necessary. Such as "sit back, ride forward," or "sit back, feet forward, pull back" or the one rein stop; any survival skills you may need when a horse acts like an undomesticated beast. Also, indulge yourself with lunge lessons to develop a good, following seat. so you can follow the undomesticated beast when he spins or leaps.

Practice your new skills during a more challenging situation, one that makes you a little uncomfortable, and test yourself and your horse's new trained responses. Gain confidence in yourself and your horse's responses. Set yourself up for success by gradually expanding your boundaries. Get out of the arena, but have a safe horse and confident supportive rider with you or someone on the ground. You will find many supportive horse people in our area and likely in your own barn if you ask—rider's love to help people get confident again. And contrary to popular belief, it is OK to get off your horse and walk them by the scary object a few times, and then get back on and ride past it. They really won't know you didn't plan to get off, and you got them by it safely after with you on their back. You may also watch another person ride the horse. Seeing someone else do what you want to do on the horse will give you a clear picture of how you need to ride, and that the horse will respond in an appropriate manner—very good for confidence boosting—and again, having someone do it for you does not make you a wimp, it makes you smart—your brain needs to see it.

SALUTE!

Donna King

By Julia Sabatino

When show season comes around, long days with ponies and friends inevitably end with wondrous stories of the horses and people who have come and gone over the years. For Donna King she cannot seem to remember a time when horses were not in one way or another in her life. "My mother used to say that my first word was 'horse'," she joked.

Donna and her 11-year-old gelding, Bouwke W, showed their first recognized dressage tests at the Horse Park of New Jersey. Just as the hot summer day was winding down, Donna looked at her horse then to me and said, "he is everything I wanted and more." There could not be a more true statement about the pair than that.

Several years ago, Donna, sans trainer, went to Holland in search of the perfect horse. It was on this trip that Donna found Bouwke W, a three-year-old Friesian. After a happy husband approval, the lovable Bouwke made the trip across the Atlantic.

The now 11-year-old Bouwke and Donna are active competitors. Only a short time ago Donna joined ESDCTA. She excitedly told of the omnibus arriving in the mail and the prospect of future showing opportunities. In training with Amy Howard Dressage (Stockton, NJ), the pair traveled down to Allentown, NJ, for Dressage at the Park. In the ring it was apparent that the really were the perfect match between horse and rider. With each ride the pair improved by leaps and bounds, taking blue ribbons home in both First-1and First-3.

When asked of her goals, Donna simply responded, "to be a better rider and to make Bouwke a better horse. Dressage is the way to do that. I believe we all feel the same way." So when the dog days of summer get us down, and showing seems like an ever taller mountain to climb, let us think of one of ESDCTA's newest members, and remember that dressage is about making the bond we already have with our horses and friends stronger and happier.

FOALIN' AROUND

Youth News, Activities, and Opportunities

ESDCTA Jr/Yr Teams

ESDCTA's Youth Members have been extremely busy this summer - learning, competing, and just having tons of fun!

Region One Youth Team Competition

In July, ESDCTA sent three teams of youth members to the Region One Youth Team Competition at Morven Park in Leesburg, VA. Nine kids and seven horses represented ESDCTA for two fun-filled days of competition. Our decorating theme for this year was Broadway Shows and the girls really had fun with that and went all out in their decorating. We didn't win any awards for our stalls, but they turned out very cool! ESDCTA sponsored the High Score Champion and Reserve Champion Awards for two Divisions at this competition in addition to fielding the three youth teams.

The weather was extremely hot, but all of the horses and riders held up well. ESDCTA's Drama Queens—Rebecca Kuc and Rufus, Danielle Marino and My Last Good Fortune, and Grace Schierwagen and Duncan—came in 4th place in their Mixed Level Division. The Showbiz Sweethearts - Elizabeth Hochmiller and Daddy's Dollars, Jessica Giuliano and Rumor Has It, and Haley Schierwagen and Against All Odds—were the Reserve Champions in their Mixed Age Division. The Broadway Babes—Danielle David and Duncan, Stephanie Kurtz and Skip, Zip and Zap, and Ashley Coleman and Against All Odds—were 4th place in that same Division. One of the ESDCTA riders, Lizzie Hochmiller, was the Reserve Champion High Score Winner in her division. Rufus won an award for the fattest pony (though he truly wasn't). Grace and Duncan won the award for the Most Exciting Moment since Duncan got very playful in their test on Saturday, but Grace came out of the ring and said, "Well, at least I kept smiling. There's always tomorrow." And of course the judge on Sunday wrote on her test that he was a calm, but lazy horse! That's horses for you!

Our Chef d'equipe, Jessica Kuc, once again solicited donations from several show grounds so that we could also present ESDCTA Awards. The Saturday High Score Award was a free show entry to Smooth Transitions Equestrian Center and was won by Lizzie Hochmiller with a score of over 71%. The Sunday High Score Award was a free show entry to Bit By Bit Equestrian Center and was also won by Lizzie, as was the Highest Combined Score Award which was a free show entry to a Bucks County Tuesday Night Show. The Award for Most Improved was a free show entry to Flying Change Farm, and was won by Danielle David who improved by over 7% from Saturday to Sunday. The Best Stall Decorating Award was a free show entry to Hidden Creek Equestrian Center, and was won by Danielle Marino for her Lion King stall.

On Saturday, everyone spent the late afternoon in the hotel pool. Afterwards, all of the kids went to dinner at an Italian Restaurant and then went for ice cream before heading back to the hotel to hang out while the adults enjoyed a great dinner at Red, Hot and Blue without them! It was a win-win all around!

Overall, everyone felt it was a great experience and was really appreciative to ESDCTA for their generous sponsorship of our teams.

Youth Pilates Clinic

On August 7, the ESDCTA Youth Committee hosted a Pilates for Riders Clinic at Millstone Pilates. Sharon Spaziani graciously donated her time and use of her of a light of the base of the second difference of the second differenc stronger, more centered equestrians, and look forward to the possibility of working with her to offer future clinics, as well.

Difficult Run Youth Eventing Team Competition

Tricia Lutfy served as Chef d'equipe for the team representing ESDCTA at the Difficult Run Youth Eventing Team Competition. Our team competed at the Novice Level and was made up of ESDCTA Youth Members, Sofie Lutfy, Grace Lutfy, and Christy Pellegrino. More details on this competition will be presented in the October Newsletter.

NJ Region Pony Club Starter Horse Trials

ESDCTA will be sponsoring one Youth Member for the NJ Region Pony Club Starter Horse Trials in September. We had hoped to sponsor a full team to compete at this event; however, we did not receive enough applications to field a team. We have decided to sponsor Emilie Rucci as a representative of ESDCTA's Youth for this competition. Look for an article on her experiences in our November Newsletter.

ESDCTA's Eventing Championships Are Also Happening at Our ESDCTA New Jersey Horse Trials

Our third ESDCTA Horse Trial Championships will also be held during the New Jersey Horse Trials on October 29-30. Also, you must ride your dressage test from memory. Please include both a USEA entry form for your HT entry and attach an ESDCTA entry form to show you are also entering the ESDCTA HT Championships.

First Ever Eventing Challenge Open to Riders Who Compete in Horse Trials at the HPNJ

As we begin the month of August, it is sad to realize that the summer of 2011 is half gone. This means that 3 of the 5 Horse Trials that are a part of this inaugural Eventing Challenge series are completed, scored, pinned, and now history. Two more events are still to come so riders can still participate and submit scores for this challenge.

The challenge is open to anyone competing at any of the Horse Trial held at the Horse Park of New Jersey during this 2011 show season. These events included the USEA HPNJ events held on July 2 and July 29-30, as well as the New Jersey Region Pony Club's Starter Horse Trials, which were held on June 5. The next event that is part of this series will be the NJ Region Pony Club's Starter Horse Trials to be held on September 25. The final Horse Trials of this series will be ESDCTA's New Jersey Horse Trials, which will be held on October 29 and 30 for 2011. Visit www.esdcta.org for more information, or email: challenge@esdcta.org

Don't forget the final XC schooling date for 2011 is September 18. This is the Sunday that also hosts our Dressage Schooling Championship show open to our members only. Members not riding in the Championships are invited to come to the XC schooling. Our dressage competitors are also invited to try riding on the XC course and perhaps school over our smaller fences.

Cost for members for the day is $60 and non-members pay $75. More information is on page 164 of the Omnibus. A reminder to all to wear a protective vest and a medical arm band. All riders must have a ground person with them. This event is by postentry only, which means that you enter that day when you arrive at the HPNJ. Please use the ESDCTA show entry form, which is available for downloading from our website.

It's Omnibus Time Again!!!

Organizer's Meeting for the 2012 Omnibus and Calendar of Registered Shows for 2012 will be November 8, 2011

Cathy Brogan, Editor of ESDCTA's 2012 Omnibus, will hold the Annual Meeting for Organizers to set up the calendar for registered ESDCTA shows on Tuesday, November 8, 2011. The location will be the same as last year: the conference room at the Days Inn, 1260 Route 22 East, Bridgewater, NJ.

All show organizers should plan to attend this meeting. Shows that currently hold ESDCTA registered shows have first claim on those dates for their shows for 2012. Prior to that meeting, all organizers will receive a copy of this year's prize list page(s) and are asked to update those pages with information for 2012. If the organizer is unable to attend, we ask that they notify Cathy Brogan, and forward their information for their 2012 shows prior to the November 8 meeting. This will insure that the calendar lists all shows for 2012.

If a new organizer wishes to add a new show and/or a new location for a show for 2012, please contact Cathy Brogan for more details on how to do this.

Members – Would You Like to Be on the Cover of Our 2012 Omnibus? We Are Looking for Omnibus Cover Pictures for Next Year's Book

For the past few years we have featured pictures of our members and their horses on the cover of our Omnibus. Additionally, we have included as many pictures as possible inside our Omnibus out of those that were sent to us to be considered for the cover. We know that only one picture can be on the cover, but with so many really nice photos arriving in our email, we want to include as many as possible of them in our ESDCTA Omnibus because this is your organization and it belongs to you, its members. So if you have a picture that you would like to be considered for the cover of the 2012 Omnibus or would like to have included inside the book, please send them to the Editor, Cathy Brogan, at Omnibus@esdcta, or mail them to her address: 176 Barbertown Idell Road, Frenchtown, NJ 08825.

Thank you for helping again this year.

Cost for Advertising in the 2012 Omnibus

Advertisers who might be interested in purchasing advertising space for next year should contact the Omnibus Chair, Cathy Brogan, with any questions about this topic. Most advertising rates will remain the same as last year, which are as follows:

Lastly, be honest with yourself and ask for a professional opinion about the horse you were riding when the traumatic experience happened. It may have just been a one time thing with the horse, or it could be a symptom of something wrong, either physically with the horse or with your relationship with the horse. Remember riding is challenging enough, and we are supposed to enjoy it. If the horse is not a good match for your time schedule, riding skill set, comfort zone or whatever, it does not mean you or the horse are a failure. Think of it as a marriage between two good people that just don't get along it's no good for either one and both will be happier and better off apart. Do get professional help in assessing the horse and the situation. Reestablishing confidence involves being honest with yourself. You need to dig deep and find the source causing your lack of confidence. Once you have figured that out, make a plan, find the people to support you, be ready for setbacks, and remember you were born with the "horseperson gene."

SHOW RESULTS

In order to reduce newsletter production costs and go a bit greener than in the past, we have limited the show results in the newsletter to 1st through 4th places.

For a complete list, please go to the web site, esdcta.org.

While some of our members have said posting all of the show results on the web site is sufficient, others prefer the hard copy. The Board of Trustees believes this is a good compromise, but welcomes your feedback.

We appreciate your support
